Background & Details

Jack was born in 1892 and left as a newborn child at an orphanage in China. Taken care of by [Bishop Charles Perry Scott] the Bishop of North China as the only white child in the region. He doesn't show any Asian physical attributes which caused some questions as to his parentage. After turning 18 Jack left China for Chicago, where with the good word & funding of Bishop Scott he attended the University of Chicago and the newly founded Law School. After graduating with honors he tried his hand as a lawyer but found it unsatisfying. The need to find the perpetrators and feel their collars in his tight-clenched fist felt more like justice.

There was another orphan brought to the church that was also brought up with Jack, her name was Chun Li "Quiteria" and was like a sister to him.

His quiet, firm and just manner brought him quickly to the attention of the Pinkerton Detective Agency. After spending a number of years in Chicago as both an investigator and an Agent he moved to New York City to assist in a number of odd occurrences the regional office had been investigating. While on the job he tends to focus on just the facts and is willing and capable of handling either the cool-headed criminal who schemes at the top of his self-made empire, or the crazed, druggie with a blade or heater out for a few bucks.
